JOHN HARBISON

John Harbison was born in 1938 in Orange, New Jersey. His father, a Princeton history professor, was an amateur composer in both serious and pop styles. John studied violin and piano and pursued jazz obsessively. Though already a prize-winning composer at fifteen, he received little encouragement from Walter Piston with whom he studied at Harvard. Rather than abandon his ambitions, he broadened his activities, playing more jazz and conducting. He spent a summer at Tanglewood, and after Harvard he studied composition with Boris Blacher, in Berlin and conducting with Dean Dixon in Salzburg, where he took a first prize.

For graduate school Harbison determined to study with Roger Sessions whose Third Symphony, commissioned by the Boston Symphony for its 75th anniversary, had greatly impressed him during his Harvard years. Sessions was then on the Princeton faculty, so there Harbison went. His teachers also included Milton Babbitt and Earl Kim. He has taught at Harvard, Brandeis, Reed, and since 1969, Massachusetts Institute of Technology. As a conductor, he enriched Boston's concert life with adventurous programming for the Cantata Singers or such new-music ensembles as Collage. Like many composers who hold an academic job, Harbison composes most intensely in the summer, generally preferring to work on a farm belonging to his wife's mother in Token Creek, Wisconsin. He is currently composer-in-residence for the Los Angeles Philharmonic. His awards, grants and commissions are numerous and include: Exxon-Rockefeller Composer-in-Residence for the Pittsburgh Symphony, Kennedy Center-Friedheim Award, Anniversary Commissions from the Boston Symphony, San Francisco Symphony, New Haven Symphony and a Guggenheim Fellowship.

Harbison's music draws together gestures and ideas from musical worlds that reflect such favorite composers as Robert Schumann and Heinrich Schütz, the songs of George Gershwin, and the erratic qualities of Igor Stravinsky. His work has always been expressive, though never with a heart-on-sleeve emoting of personal angst, a mode that simply does not interest him. He much prefers to write music that suggests the catharsis of ritual, and in this respect he resembles Stravinsky, perhaps most clearly in his chamber opera Fall Moos in March. Recently Harbison has shown an interest in recapturing such historical genres as the formal set of variations (as in his Variations for violin, clarinet, and piano) or the Piano Quintet.

PARTICIPATING COMPOSERS

JEFFREY BISHOP was born in Hastings, England. He received his musical education at the Royal College of Music, London. He studied composition with Herbert Howells, violin with Pierre Tis and conducting with Sir Adrian Boult. He graduated from the Royal College with all the major prizes in composition, the only person to do so in the school's history. He then established himself in London as a free-lance violinist and composer. He also became assistant to Sir Adrian Boult, working on definitive editions of the works of Elgar, Holst and Vaughan Williams that are particularly associated with Boult. His own compositions were heard at leading British Festivals including Cheltenham and London, while his first opera was produced at the Dartington Festival, commissioned by the BBC and conducted by Sir Charles Mackerras. His works were published and reached audiences in Europe and further afield. He was also conductor of the Avebury Singers and director of music for the London Borough of Bromley. In 1975 he moved to New York. His music has been played in many parts of the United States and is still played in Europe. He is published by Naxos, Bournemouth, MMB and Oxford University Press. His opera, the "Dead Moon" was premiered at the Ringling Medieval Fair in Sarasota in 1984 and has been heard since in Chattanooga, Cleveland, Philadelphia and New York (at the Cathedral of St. John and Divine). The Canadian children's opera chorus was televised and subject of a documentary on C.V.T.V. In April 1986 another opera "Flesh of My Flesh" was premiered at an Anglo French festival in Washington D.C. He is director of the performance department of Oxford University Press and chairman of the performance committee of the American Music Publishers Association.

JULIO ESTRADA was born in Mexico City (1941) from an exiled Spanish family. In Mexico, he began his musical studies in 1957 and studied composition with Orbelo (1959-61) and Murech (1963-67). In Paris (1965-69) he studied with Messiaen, Boullanger, Marie and Xenakis and in West Germany with Stockhausen (Köln, 1968) and Ligeti (Darmstadt, 1972).

In 1970 he re-established himself in Mexico, and since then, he has worked on many different facets of music at the Universidad Nacional Autónoma de México: he has taught a Composition Theory Seminar at the Escuela de Música; he has produced weekly music programs at Radio UNAM; he has conducted new music ensembles created by himself (Repertorio Nuevo); and he has headed the musical research in his country in his research position at Instituto de Investigaciones Estéticas.

With Jorge Gil he has written Music and Finite Groups Theory (published by IIE/UNAM, 1984), and he is also the General Editor of La Música de México (published by IIE/UNAM, 1984, 1985, 3 volumes), the most complete publication on Mexican Music: Pre-Columbian to the Contemporary. Through his theoretical research he proposes a "General Theory of Intervallic Cycles, Associations and Orbits in all Scales," applicable to tonal, chromatic and microintervallic music, an organization system which has analytic and compositional applications (a new text of the author will come out of press in 1986, also published by IIE/UNAM: Teoría general de los ciclos y sus aplicaciones al análisis musical).

Estrada has been a Tinker Professor at Stanford University and a visiting professor at University of California, San Diego. He has also been a lecturer at Aula de Música, Universidad Complutense, Madrid and has delivered lectures at various institutions in Mexico, USA, Canada, Brazil and France.

The French Ministry of Culture decorates him with the Ordre des Arts et des Lettres (1981); the Mexican Ministry of Education appointed him as National Researcher (1984).

His musical creation is characterized by his own theoretical proposals, i.e.: compositional mechanics (Personas, Solo, Memoria, Melódica); Finite Groups Theory (Pagar in 4 dimensions, Canto Avarice); Network Theory (Canto lejano, Canto eterno, Arvaldi) and Continuous Parametrical Counterpoint (volle' volte, yamohal' (or, yamohal' nahal, ikhi' one)). Most of his works are published by Salabert Editions, France.

BURT FENNER was born in New York City in 1928. He graduated from the Mannes College of Music in New York with a Bachelor of Science in composition and from Columbia University, also in New York, with a Master of Arts in Composition. He studied composition with Otto Lenzig, Jack Burson, Peter Finckh Herten, Nicol Sokoloff, Roy Travis and Robert Stone; theory and analysis with Carl Schachter, Allen Forte, William J. Mitchell and Roy Travis. Since 1970 he has taught composition, electronic music and theoretical subjects at the Pennsylvania State University. Most of his composing is done during the summer season at his retreat in Rangeley, Maine. Currently he is working on The Papyrus of Ani, an oratorio based on the Egyptian Book of the Dead.

JOANNE FORMAN is the composer of six chamber operas, a dozen song cycles, plus orchestral, choral and chamber music. She is the recipient of numerous awards and honors, including a Composer's Fellowship from the National Endowment for the Arts, and a fellowship enabling her to study with Pulitzer-prize-winning composer Robert Ward. She lives in the mountain village of Talpa, famous for hejras—witchcraft—where she feels very much at home.

GORDON GETTY was born in Los Angeles in 1933, and has lived in San Francisco since 1945. He graduated from the University of San Francisco in 1956 with a B.S. Degree in English Literature, having meanwhile studied piano with the late Robert Vollesen and voice with Eamon Kent. Following six months of active duty in the army and four years in the family business, he studied theory in 1961 and 1962 under Sol Joseph at the San Francisco Conservatory of Music. Five short piano pieces from this period were published by Belwin in 1954, adding to an a cappella chorus on a poem by Tennyson, written in the Persian Gulf in 1958 and published by Composers Press/Opus in 1959. All works by Gordon Getty are now published by Rock Music, Theodore Presser Company, Sole Distributor.

Highly esteemed as a composer in the academic world, Gordon Getty has appeared as Visiting Composer at the Aspen Music Festival, at Dartmouth College, the University of Southern California, Dominican College in San Rafael, the University of New Mexico in Albuquerque and the Mannes College of Music in New York, among others, with immediate return engagements at Aspen, Dartmouth and Albuquerque; and other scheduled appearances this season and next at the University of California at Santa Barbara, Santa Clara University, and the University of California at Berkeley, where his A. E. Hoeman choruses were performed on November 2, 1986. He is the recipient of Honorary Doctorates of Music from the San Francisco Conservatory of Music, Pepperdine University, and the Mannes College of Music in New York, and will receive an Honorary Doctorate of Fine Arts from the University of Maryland in May, 1987.

Among commissions offered and under consideration, (in addition to that of the International Shakespeare Globe Center's commission of the concert opera, Philip Jack, to be performed in London's Royal Festival Hall and broadcast live by the BBC in July, 1987), are commissions for a work for Mikhailov-Romanevich and the National Symphony Orchestra, a major choral work for the Los Angeles choirs at the Music Center in Los Angeles, an organ work for the University of California at Berkeley, and an orchestral work for the Vienna Philharmonic.

The culmination of Dean Robb's interest in and study of folk music was the publication in 1980 of his authoritative book Hispanic Folk Music of New Mexico and the Southwest. He has been the recipient of numerous honors and grants including recently the honorary degree Doctor of Music by the University of New Mexico and honorary membership on the Board of Directors of the New Mexico Symphony. A number of his works have been recorded, most recently his Requiem Mass for organ, chorus and soloists.
